

Studying Ourselves: Libraries and the User Experience

Speakers

Andrew Abbott is the Gustavus F. and Ann M. Swift Distinguished Service Professor in the Department of Sociology and the College at the University of Chicago. He has written on the foundations of social science methodology and on the evolution of the social sciences and the academic system. Recent publications include: "Library research infrastructure for humanistic and social scientific scholarship in the twentieth century," in Social Knowledge in the Making, Charles Camic et al., eds., University of Chicago Press, 2011.

<http://home.uchicago.edu/aabbott/>

Andrew Asher is the Assessment Librarian at Indiana University, Bloomington. An ethnographer and anthropologist by vocation, he holds a PhD in sociocultural anthropology from the University of Illinois. He was the Lead Research Anthropologist for the ERIAL project. Recent publications and presentations include: College Libraries and Student Culture: What We Now Know., edited with Lynda M. Duke, Chicago: American Library Association, 2012 and the forthcoming "Paths of Discovery: Comparing the Search Effectiveness of EBSCO Discovery Service, Summon, Google Scholar, and Conventional Library Resources" in College and Research Libraries, forthcoming 2013.

http://works.bepress.com/andrew_asher/

Diane Wahl is the User Experience Librarian at the University of North Texas. She has presented at the LibQUAL+® Share Fair at 2011 and 2012 American Library Association Conferences. Presentations and publications include "Studying Distance Students: Methods, Findings, Actions" in Journal of Library & Information Services in Distance Learning with B. Avery and L. Henry, 2013.

<https://faculty.unt.edu/editprofile.php?pid=3693&onlyview=1>

Continue the conversation and get links to articles and reports at:

<http://anssacrl.wordpress.com/conference/2013-chicago/program/>

Hashtag: #ANSS13

Interested in learning more about ANSS?

Visit us at:

<http://anssacrl.wordpress.com/>

"ANSS gives me a supportive group of librarians with similar job commitments and dedication to their disciplines who just happen to be a whole lot of fun!"

- Long-time ANSS Member

Learn more about ULS:

<http://www.acrl.ala.org/ULS/>